SEPTEMBER SAFETY NEWS

As I sit here drafting my September newsletter submission, I cannot help but think of many of our members who are sick, in the hospital or have passed on. I would ask that we all keep our members in our thoughts and prayers since many are battling various illnesses. I was really saddened to learn of the passing of a dear friend, Walter Murphy. Many of you never had the pleasure of meeting Walter, but he was a long-time member of the KCWG and was also an incredibly generous benefactor of the Guild. My own personal experience with Walter goes back quite a few years and I can say he was a standout guy, husband, father, grandfather and all around genuinely nice human being. You will be missed my friend.

On the subject of safety, I am taking a stab at the trending topic.... COVID 19. As some of you may know, I was tested positive a couple weeks back and I am among most cases that have survived without any severe symptoms. While I do not know how or where I was exposed, I have a rather good idea and it was due to my being lax in wearing a mask and maintaining the recommended 6ft. social distance. Since we have re-opened the shop, we have asked that you wear your masks and do your best to maintain that 6 ft. social distance while in the shop. Sometimes that may not be possible, but please do your best. The biggest challenge we face is unknowingly getting exposed. People who have the virus, may not know they are contaminated and proceed to continue life as normal. Just one person can possibly infect dozens of people without knowing it. That is how virus’ work. My own experience of the

COVID is not a very severe experience. My symptoms were a mild cough, achiness, headache and a loss of the sense of taste or smell and no appetite. My cough progressed to a deeper lung cough, but that has been a fact of life for me for the last 10 years since I was diagnosed with pneumonia. I have to say, the COVID virus is nothing to mess with, but it really has not been any more serious than a case of the flu. I am fortunate in that regard. Please know that we are taking the necessary precautions in the shop to protect our members while using the shop. Please be reminded that we need you to wear a mask while in the shop, use the hand sanitizer while in the shop and maintain the requested 6 ft. social distance. These are the minimum steps we can all take to avoid being infected or possibly infecting someone else. If you were in the shop and believe you have been exposed or contaminated, please be sure to let us know so we can inform those that were using the shop while you were there. Contact tracing is required by the KCMO Health Department should we have anyone get exposed. According to what I have been reading, there are those who are asymptomatic who could be infecting others without knowing it. Until we have been given the all-clear, masks and social distancing will be required in the shop. If you are one who has a compromised immune system or have any pre-existing health conditions that might put you at greater risk, please refrain from coming into the shop. Likewise, if you are exhibiting any of the known symptoms, please refrain from coming into the shop until you have been tested and confirmed negative.

I look forward to seeing everyone back in Stay Safe!

Director of Safety

LIBRARY NOTES AND COMMENTS

Barns of Missouri (call #2568), The Guide to Woodworking with Kids (call #2148), and Scroll Saw Holiday Patterns (call #3222) have been donated to the Guild and are listed in the online catalog and are on the shelves. We have received magazines collections from two former members (donated by Marian Van Vleet whose husband has passed and donated by Glen Ferguson). Organizing the magazines is a work in progress.

There will be a Library Checkout 3 ring binder on the Library desk if you would prefer to use that instead of using the computer. Items that are returned should be placed in container on the desk marked "Returns" and we will take care of them.

If you have trouble getting a book checked out or any other Library issue please send an email to: librarian@kcwoodworkersguild.org library@kcwg.org -or- library@kcwg.org.

There is container of hand sanitizer on the Library desk if you need to use that.

“HOBBS”ERVATIONS

First, let me say that there are still a couple of slots left in the Ben Hobbs Queen Anne Chair class. If you are on the fence, this is the opportunity that you need to take to get your skills to a whole new level. Don't let it slip by!

Next, you may know that in the monthly meeting, I am planning to take the reins and share a little bit of what I know.

If you read all the newsletters, several months ago I brought up some unfinished projects. The side table that I ended up finishing a few weeks ago is one of the pieces from the article, so it was definitely nice to get it done.

Of course I typically don't go the simple route, and for this table I added quite a few embellishments, which I will discuss on the 23rd. Today I will focus on the gadrooning, which is the decorative molding below the apron.

Gadrooning is essentially a series of convex shapes, one after the other, usually connected with a corresponding concavity. It is a classical element that has been used, at least since the Renaissance, and it shows up repeatedly in furniture from the Chippendale area, which in the Americas was usually in the second half of the 18th century, as was the Philadelphia card table, attached.

I hope to demonstrate this in the program, but even if it seems complex, it breaks down into several very simple steps. Here's a quick how-to:

1. Start by creating a simple half-round molding. For the side table I used a 5/8" roundover bit with a hand-held router, making sure there was plenty of width for clamping and installation to the bottom of the table rails. This could also be cut by hand, rounding over with a hand plane.

2. Next, lay out diagonal lines, spacing consistently and then draw the lines by hand. The spacing is open to your own personal taste, but keep in mind good proportions. For the side table I spaced them about 3/4" each. For later reference, place a tic mark on the bottom of the molding as well.

3. Next, using carving gouges, hollow out every other concave section. Keep in mind that the gouge cuts well going downhill, or with the grain, and not so much against the grain. Take your time and get used to the process to avoid too much tear-out or chipping (Figure 1)

4. Now round over the convex sections with chisels. Shallow gouges or flat chisels can be used. At this point I like to smooth out the moldings with a file, which helps in the next step (FIG 2).

5. The next step is to reestablish the layout line, using the tic marks on the

Figure 3

6. Now take the same gouge that was used for the hollows and cut the bottom of the molding, carrying the concave section through the bottom. Not all gadrooning has this feature, but it does add more life to the carving (FIG4).

7. Using a v-chisel, carve right down the re-established layout lines, creating a clear division between the convex and concave lobes of the molding. The v-tool can be tricky as it by nature cuts with the grain on one side of the chisel and against the grain on the other side (FIG 5)

8. Lastly, re-round over the concave sections, and the carving is complete (FIG 6).

necessary, but keep in mind that it is hand-carved!

So, like many things in woodworking, something that at first glance might seem complex or too "artistic", can be broken down to several systematic steps which makes things more manageable. And the good thing is that you can practice. It's only wood, right? Happy woodworking. Cal

SANTA'S WORKSHOP & HOLIDAY SALE

Do you make something folks would want to buy? Start building your inventory. Here's your opportunity to make some Christmas sales. Saturday, November 14 & Sunday, November 15, 2020, 10:00am - 6:00pm KCWG and KCWT are jointly hosting a Santa's Workshop & Holiday Sale.

We are providing a unique opportunity to build a toy with Santa, instead of just "meeting" him. This will also introduce the child to the process of making a wooden toy. Additionally, we will introduce parents to our shops with the potential of new members for both KCWG & KCWT.

There will be more details next month, but current plans are as follows:

Children will be given a block of wood then proceed to each roped off station that will be "manned" by a KCWG Woodworker "Elf."

They will proceed through six stations to change the block into a toy truck.

Then into the hand-tool room to glue on pre-made cab backs, truck beds, and wheels (similar to Christkindle or Makers Faire) and of course meet Santa. On their way out of the hand-tool room they will have a hole drilled in the middle of the truck bed. KCWT members will provide a lathed top that will fit into the hole. So the kids get two gifts in one, thank you KCWT.

On exiting the hand-tool room, there will be the Holiday Mart with hand-made unique Christmas gifts, so attendees can get that special gift for that "hard-to-buy-for" friend or family member.

Each vendor will need to decorate their table/workbench to make it "Christmas" to attract buyers, and vendors will provide their own money collection.

Tables will be limited, exact number TBD, for social distancing in our normal meeting space area. Anyone interested in having a table to sell your stuff, contact: mike.mccauley.kcwg@gmail.com

Each person entering the Guild must wear a mask. We will be checking temperatures on entering, providing hand sanitizer, and practicing social distancing, unless restrictions change.

So start building your inventory and a sign up for helper "Elves" will be posted soon.

Mike McCauley
Secretary KCWG

FINANCIAL UPDATE

The Guild's finances are returning to normal. Membership for August was over $1,000 for the first time since March and class registration payment were above $3,000. The Guild ended August in the red by a little over $1,200 but that is an improvement. It has been a changing year, but we remain financially sound and look forward to membership renewal starting in November and the year ahead.

Planning for next year will start in October with the creation of the 2021 budget. Budgeting for next year will encompass more guess work than normal but I am sure we are up to the job. If you have thoughts or suggestion, please contact anyone on the leadership committee.

This is also a good time for you to consider becoming more active in the administration of the Guild during the coming year. There are always jobs that need to be managed and the more members that are involved the easier it is to spread the workload. If you are interested, please contact any member of the leadership committee, and get involved.

The Guild is also in the process of negotiating a new lease. The current lease ends in May 2021 and we would like to have a new lease well before that date. The lease will be different since we have a new landlord, Copaken Brooks. The Copaken Brooks lease contains a separate line item for common area maintenance (CAM) charges. CAM charges can include items like landscaping, snow removal, building maintenance, repairs, property taxes and so on. The landlord wants to include items and we want to exclude items and cap the charge. The CAM becomes another item that need to be agreed upon. Nothing has come up that would suggest an agreement cannot be reached. It will just take a little more time and effort. We will update you as the process moves forward.

Please look at the Monthly Statement of Operation in the Members Only area of the Guild website. The purpose of the monthly statement is to keep you informed on the Guild's financial condition and to let you know the sources of revenue and the payments made. If you would like additional information in the report, please let me know.

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE NEWSLETTER THIS MONTH?

Our beloved Newsletter Editor/Communications Director, Ron Haw gave us all a scare when we found out through his wife Mary that he was in the Hospital. Thankfully Ron is much better and is back to directing the communications operations. Unfortunately for the Guild, Ron has asked me to produce the September Newsletter. Please note that as I write this, I have never used the newsletter software and we only have a week to get the newsletter out. What could go wrong? Everything.

Fortunately, Ron himself is going to bail me out and put together the September Newsletter.

Ron please get better fast. For the Guilds' sake (and mine).

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Guild members Mike Resch and Tim Locke teamed up to answer a request from an area Vietnam Era Veterans group. “Doc” Pustka approached Tim Locke about a suitable plaque to properly display the Purple Heart decoration. After a couple of meetings a design was drafted based on a photo from Doc by Locke’s piping designer.

were tried to regain the rich natural purple color expected without a great deal of success so Craig

Craig Arnold got Woodcraft (a Guild sponsor) to supply the purple heart lumber at a nice discount to retail pricing.

Arnold was called again who recommended some tinting methods.

Mike Resch stepped up to provide the CNC design and routing methods, then Mike routed the plaques.

Several methods were presented to “Doc” who loved them all. “Doc” took all seven trials and distributed to members of his Vietnam Era Veteran’s group of Purple Heart recipients.

Tim Locke sanded the plaques to prepare for finish.

The most difficult part of the project was getting the purple heart lumber back to purple. In case you have tried cutting purple heart the interior is brown. Based on internet searches a number of methods

COMMUNICATIONS REPORT

We all face those times when your day doesn't go as planned. On a recent Saturday when I was planning on heading out to the guild to perform afternoon foreman duties, I was having a pain in my right leg. I tried to ignore the pain but soon decided that it was in my best interest, and yours, that I pass on my obligation for the day. Fortunately, Chuck was able to find someone to cover for me so that the shop didn't need to be closed and I thank him and whoever stepped in for your help.

As my evening progressed the pain, an infection as it turns out, grew steadily more uncomfortable and by 4:00am justified a trip to North Kansas City Hospital courtesy of the Gladstone Fire Dept. As I write this on Sept 3rd, 12 days later, I'm beginning to feel like joining the world again and heading home to see if the dog still remembers me.

Mark Crowley has stepped up to assume my Communications Director's duties and Barb Hinton and others have assumed my Monday foreman duties. I am so thankful to my friends at the guild who have offered their thoughts and support to Mary and me and have included us in their prayers. This has been a life challenging event for our family, and I encourage everyone who sits in the background to step forward and get more involved. We spout a lot of things to new and potential members but I've found out first hand that I'm involved in an organization that not only supports woodworking but supports its members, in way more than just hollow words.

On another front, please remember that our monthly membership meetings are going to held online. Due to an earlier water main break, we also lost our internet connection so many of us weren't able to participate in the meeting. Hopefully we have the connection fully restored for this month's meeting. Tune in at this link:

Thank you all, and I hope to see you in the shop soon.

STUDENT GUILD MEMBER IS NEW EAGLE SCOUT

Charlie's Eagle Scout Project was to create and install 24 - 4"x 4" x 48" trail marker posts at Cave Spring Park located at Gregory and Blue Ridge Blvd.

Charlie needed to use pressure treated posts due to ground contact so his prep work could not be done at the Guild. However, he utilized skills learned by observing as a student member of the Guild.

He used a Miter Saw to cut the 8' posts in half. Then used a sliding Miter Saw to chamfer the top of each post so rain would run off and for aesthetics.

He then had to program a CNC machine to custom engrave all four sides of the posts. His grandfather helped by using carving tools to 'clean-out' the letters. Then each set of vertical lettering had to be hand painted inside the groove paths left by the CNC engraving, with exterior enamel.

Charlie used a drill press with a Forstner bit to create a 1/4"x 2" disk in each marker that was painted with specific trail color. He also used another Forstner bit on the opposite side to inlay a 1.5" laser engraved coin that indicated it was his Eagle Project, his Troop number, the year of installation and his name. Each post received four coats of Spar Urethane for outdoor protection.

Installation day was June 6, 2020 with eight family groups, 25 workers, installing 24 trail markers.

On August 19, 2020 Guild Member, Charlie Baul, passed his board of review and became an Eagle Scout.

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

The September meeting will be YouTube. I apologize for the technical difficulties we had in getting the August meeting online.

We think the giant geyser created when a water pipe burst in the parking lot may have damaged the Google Fiber line. And, for today, all is well and expected to work on meeting night...fingers crossed.

Our planned presentation is from Guild vice president, Calvin Hobbs.

The Guild has teamed up with the Kansas City Woodworkers Association to present Santa's Workshop and Sale on November 13 and 14 at the Guild.

If you've ever wanted to try selling the items you make, here's your chance. Guild secretary, Mike McCauley, is Santa and will lead young, aspiring woodworkers in building a toy truck. We'll need Guild volunteers to assist Santa in the building of the toy trucks.

More details to come.

The shop is still open and really hasn't seen too many periods of full capacity of 10 members plus the shop foreman. During my open shop on Tuesdays, I've had as many as eight members.

Are you planning to make Christmas gifts this year? The time is now to start them. The Guild's shop activity really picks up after Thanksgiving, so don't delay.

That's it for this month, see you in the shop.

SEPTEMBER MEETING PROGRAM

I hope that you were able to catch the August program because the chips were really flying - flying out more than 20 feet I am told. Unfortunately, there were WiFi issues and some of you may not have been able to watch it live. Personally, I'm hoping to get them back to teach some classes in making bowls and spoons with a grinder as well as making an adze for hollowing out bowls and chair seats. May have to run the class outside or they do teach classes at their home location, I think. They would definitely add to our diversity of woodworking class subjects.

For September, our own nationally-renowned Calvin Hobbs will be showing us what he did to modify a project that started out as a Guild class project. One great thing about Cal giving a demonstration is that he has a lot of experience and information in his head and we can all learn more than what the original intent of the program was. I'm not sure just what Cal will be doing, but if it is anything like the Skill Builder that he did on carving a decorative piece for a chair front, than you will be glad that you tuned in.

And if you don't get enough of Cal in September, we're planning on hosting his Dad in October. Those are two professional Woodworkers that are known around the country and we are so lucky to have them present to us.

There is also a very good chance that we will have a November program from an actively producing wood shop in which all the equipment is belt-driven. They are in Humboldt, Kansas, but some of us plan to drive down and record a program and also have the owner/operator here in KC for our November meeting.

Stay safe and stay healthy!
